"At the end of the evening, the audience is up, cheering and stamping. In HARD TIMES, Mr. Kirwan has not only delivered a knockout entertainment, he's done a public service, acquainting us with the Foster songbook and the striving, teeming America for which it was written" - New York Times

Thank you so much to the 599 people who joined us in raising the money to pay for the recording costs of Last Call, Black 47's final CD. This album is as much yours as ours and it's one of our best! We're close to finishing it and your pledge incentives will be going out soon. There are two days left to make a pledge - this will ensure that you will get a download copy of the album some time before the general public. Click on the link below to get information, enjoy previews and other information.

Written by Thomas Keneally of Schindler's List fame, Transport tells the story of the impoverished Irish women deported to the Australian penal colonies. With an original score by Black 47's Larry Kirwan that features traditional Irish music mixed with a contemporary Broadway resonance, Transport transcends time with a hauntingly moving immediacy.
