The seminal Irish rock band, Black 47, are calling it quits after 15 albums and 25 years. As part of their farewell tour in support of their last two albums Last Call and Rise Up, the band will be performing this Thursday at The Irish Heritage Center of Greater Cincinnati.

I was able to catch up with lead singer Larry Kirwan by phone to talk about the band, their legacy, the tour, his favorite moments throughout the years, and what the future holds.

Black 47 will be bidding farewell to Cincinnati at The Irish Heritage Center of Greater Cincinnati on Thursday, October 9th at 7pm. The IHC is located at 3905 Eastern Ave in Columbia Tusculum. Tickets are still available through www.cincyticket.com or by phone at 513-533-0100.
